

CHIEF LORRAINE COBINESS

Lorraine Cobiness has over a decade of experience as Chief of Niisaachewan First Nation. She will continue to oversee the Manomin Research Project. From her position, Cobiness will set research priorities, review progress reports, and establish objectives for research dissemination and use. She has experience collaborating with industry and government to manage the Kenora Forest. She is keen to apply these relationship-building and negotiating skills to water management in the upper Winnipeg River drainage basin.