

Dr Danielle Battram PhD, RD is an Associate Professor and Registered Dietitian in the School of Food and Nutritional Sciences at Brescia University College. She completed all her graduate degrees from the University of Guelph in the School of Human Health and Nutritional Sciences, in the areas of exercise physiology, nutrition and metabolism. Her research interests focus mainly on understanding and improving food literacy in children and adolescents.